A letter from the Executive Director

---

By the end of Fiscal Year 2016, CASA of Oklahoma County (CASAofOKCO) saw 245 trained community volunteers give a voice and caring adult to 735 children in 326 cases. Most notably, CASAofOKCO experienced a 99% increase in the number of reunifications with biological families over FY 2015 as well as saw reunifications exceed adoptions by 23% in FY2016.

Enhanced programming and agency collaborations continue to improve opportunities for our children and families. CASAofOKCO's Education Advocacy program trains advocates to include several research-based techniques for working successfully within the school culture. The CASEA volunteer works closely with an Educational Advocate Supervisor, who provides technical support and direction. Serving in a dual role as a mentor and advocate, the CASEA volunteer collects risk data about a child's academic achievement (grades), attendance, and behavioral reports from teachers and through electronic portals in several school districts throughout the county. The CASEA volunteer visits with the child twice a month, visits the school and teachers once a month, visits with Foster Parents, Biological Parents, DHS Workers, Attorneys, and other parties in the case as needed. The CASEA volunteer attends all court hearings, family team conferences, placement meetings, and adoption meetings.

Last year's shelter collaboration, centered around closing of the Pauline Mayer Emergency Children's Shelter, provides yet another vehicle to better serve our children by ensuring families have the best chance for fast and efficient services from the moment they enter the Child Welfare system. This collaboration is the project model for 50 cases focused on family reunification. The objectives of the model are to "increase the rate of safe and appropriate family reunification, improve placement stability, and decrease the likelihood of families needing further Child Welfare Services or alternative permanent plans."

In addition to focusing on the individual child's best interests, efforts within each of these programs help to prepare children for the unique journey each will face.

Lastly, but far from least, National CASA recognized CASA of Oklahoma County with their 2016 Awards of Excellence. National CASA named Oklahoma County's Board Member, Lori Blumenthal, 2016 Board Member of the Year for her outstanding leadership and dedication to CASA of Oklahoma County. With over 900 programs and 75,000 volunteers nationally, both Lori and CASA of Oklahoma County were sincerely honored by National's recognition of Ms. Blumenthal. It is her own experience as an advocate that has driven Ms. Blumenthal's passion for advocacy and has bolstered her extraordinary belief in the difference a Court Appointed Special Advocate volunteer can make.

At CASAofOKCO we look forward to the system improvements we all hope to see from the ongoing enhancement efforts. Whether you are the donor, who so generously supports our programming each year, or the volunteer, who has taken the CASA mission to heart and so tirelessly gives of your time and resources, we are indebted to you. Each year CASAofOKCO is able to serve the best interest of our abused and neglected children because of you. We cannot thank you enough.

Respectfully,

Lee Ann Limber
Executive Director
CASA of Oklahoma County, Inc.

Logan & Ava

An International CASA Success Story

Logan and Ava entered foster care when their mother's substance abuse exposed them to severe abuse and neglect. While their mother struggled with addiction, Logan's and Ava's lives came to a standstill. The siblings shared a mother, but came from different fathers.

Through some incredible investigative work, authorities were able to find Logan's biological father who lived in a foreign country. Reunifying the father and son would prove difficult, however. A lot of distance and red tape stood in the way. The reunification could separate the siblings from each other forever.

CASA was able to assign a child advocate to the case who was a native of the very same country as Logan's father. He quickly established a warm relationship with both siblings. Eventually the advocate helped Logan to reconnect with his father through online video conferencing.

The siblings felt so comfortable with their advocate that they opened up to him about abuse taking place within their foster home. The advocate immediately reported the abuse, resulting in the children being moved to a much safer foster home.

Through the tireless advocacy of the CASA volunteer, Logan was reunified with his father. Ava was legally adopted into the family as well — ensuring that the siblings would never be apart. The CASA volunteer's critical advocacy was instrumental in helping the siblings to find the safe, permanent home and loving family that every child deserves.

CASA cases come in all manners of complexity. Common among them, however, is the need for an unbiased, third-party perspective to help bring clarity about what is in the child's best interest. Successes are sometimes small and other times monumental. Logan and Ava's case shows just how impactful a child advocate can be. CASA volunteers are changing children's lives on a daily basis — as evidenced by some of our more celebrated moments in 2016.

Stability & Adoption

Charlee's CASA volunteer has been the most consistent person on her case since she came into State custody over two years ago. With no family who would care for her, Charlee's stability was a key ongoing success encouraged and nurtured by her CASA volunteer. When adoption became a possibility, the CASA volunteer was instrumental in sorting through prospective families and helping find a home for Charlee. Just before the holidays, Charlee began a trial adoption — and she has a bright future ahead!

Educational Advocacy

The Juvenile Court recommended that one of CASA of Oklahoma County's new Educational Advocates be assigned to Caden's case. The CASEA volunteer was able to help Caden to understand the importance of earning a high school diploma. Working with the Court and DHS, the CASEA got Caden assessed and helped put together a plan for school, graduation, and beyond. Caden's CASEA volunteer continues to work with him in areas of need and encourage him with each new success.

In so many circumstances, the CASA volunteer is the consistent voice and change-maker in the lives of our children!
